

English Activity

As there was a film rather than a book linked to your English work this week and because you have worked so hard with lots of writing tasks, today's English activity is to snuggle up in the cosiest place you can find and read your favourite books!

If you are desperate to do some more writing, you could write a book review-telling people about one of the books you read.

